Dear Greg,

I am writing this letter on behalf of the board of trustees, staff and faculty of the new Judith G. Wharton Music Center (formerly the Suburban Community Music Center). From concept to completion, the renovation of our new facility at 60 Locust Avenue was completed with 5 months – in time for our fall semester opening. The renovation exceeded our highest expectations. The entire community of families, volunteers, staff, faculty and board are thrilled with the design of the new building. We continue to receive compliments about our facility.

In order to achieve an extremely narrow window of time for construction, crews needed to work efficiently and through the weekends with a minimum of setbacks. This demanded extraordinary oversight from management to builder. I doubt there could have been a more conscientious crew with the responsible foresight to anticipate potential problems throughout the project. Almost daily, I was in touch with various aspects of the project and advised accordingly when decisions needed to be made urgently. To this end, John Cannata, John Lietz, E.C. Morre, and Roberto Martinez were a spectacular team.

I have strongly recommended REDCO to several other organizations which are considering renovations in the near future. Thank you to everyone at REDCO for a job well done! I hope that within a few year, we will be in touch again with plans for expansion.

With Warmest Appreciation,

Derek Mithaug, Executive Director
